

Dear parents and carers

West Sussex Library service has alerted us to an issue with the series of books pictured above.

On the back of some editions of the According to Humphrey series there is a reference to the former website for the series. We understand that the domain name is now controlled by an unrelated third party and currently redirects to unrelated and potentially unsafe content. This website is not in any way associated with Faber & Faber or with the author Betty Birney.

Please do not visit it and ensure that children do not attempt to access it either.

We wanted to bring this matter to your attention in the case your child has any of these books at home.
